

Subject: more houses in thornbury

i am astounded that this is even being considered .the services we receive are being cut (are grey bin has not been emptied since christmas) The police station has closed the new hospital has been put on hold ,Doctors and Dental services stetched to the limit try and get an appointment when you want , but i suppose we need an extra 2000 plus residents to give all the opticians that are springing up in the town some customers !!!!!!!!!!!!!!! perhaps the government inspector could visit all of them he might see the problems this will cause then. By building all these new houses the natural soak-away is being diminished which will mean more flooding in lower level ground ,as all the water collected in the drains from these new builds will be transported in vast quantities down to the coast .Where will it go when there is a high tide ? The country will turn into another holland where we will have to build Dykes to keep the flood water out !!!!!!!!!!!!!!! It is time for these planners to get their heads out of the sand before it is to late we cannot keep abusing this precious land we live in .

regards Kevin Tytherleigh