Thornbury residents and councillors believe that:

People here and all across the district have worked with South glos to develop the Core strategy, which includes a huge number of new houses. Why spoil this plan by cramming in another 300 where they are not wanted?

A Morton way site would take more green fields and risk development sprawling out of control.

Thornbury wishes to retain Morton way as the boundary to development that side of town,

The character of a market town like Thornbury would be threatened by having too much new development at once.

Infrastructure like roads. car parks and various public facilities would be overloaded.
