

Margaret Robbins - response received 28 April

Now that the Government has withdrawn the top down regional strategy in the South West and has reduced the number of houses required in this area why is there still a need for South Council to build 28000 houses and why so many at East of Harry Stoke?

Sent from my iPad