The Playing Field was donated to the parish on 31 October 1950 by [REDACTED] of Tracy Park, as a recreation ground for the people of Doynton. It was established as a Charitable Trust and is still run as one today. In the 1960s, when the local school was closed, the swings were moved from the school site to the playing field and have remained there since. Further equipment was added to celebrate the Millennium and the swings were replaced in 2009 thanks to the commitment of the Doynton Children's Committee, who assist with its maintenance. The field was originally used by the Doynton Cricket Club and is now regularly used by the Dyrham and Hinton Cricket Club in the summer months. The playing fields were given to the village in the 1930's and is well used by residents for sport and recreation. It contains :-

- A children's playground – the only one in the village
- The village cricket pitch and plenty of space for informal sporting activity,

The playing field and children's playground within it are used every day by local children and helping to forge links between occupier owned and nearby affordable housing residents. A public footpath crosses the area and provides access to the open countryside and allow movement around the village in safety without using the narrow lanes with their poor visibility, and absence of footway or verge.
